Description

About Mananthavady: Mananthavady is a small but historically rich town in the northern part of Kerala, located in the scenic Wayanad district. It's known for its natural beauty, colonial-era history, and cultural diversity. Mananthavady sits along the banks of the Kabini River, surrounded by lush forests, hills, and plantations. It lies about 35 km from Kalpetta (district headquarters) and is part of the Western Ghats region, a biodiversity hotspot. Mananthavady enjoys a pleasant climate most of the year, with cooler temperatures compared to the plains. Monsoons (June–September) bring heavy rainfall and lush greenery.
