Description

About Meenangadi : A fast-growing small town in Wayanad District, Kerala, situated along the Sultan Bathery – Kozhikode highway (NH 766)... Meenangadi was in the news for its carbon-neutral project, an initiative to make it the first carbon-neutral town in India. Land and property demand is relatively high due to its strategic location between Bathery and Kalpetta.. About Mylambadi : A beautiful village in Wayanad District, Kerala, located between Sulthan Bathery and Meenangadi along the Kozhikode – Mysore (NH 766) route. Peaceful rural setting but with easy access to commercial hubs like Bathery. Land/property demand is moderate-high, especially for agricultural land, farmhouses, and small residential plots due to proximity to Bathery... -----
