Description

About Munderi: Munderi is a small village area near Kalpetta in Wayanad district. Kalpetta is the district headquarters of Wayanad in Kerala and one of the most important towns in the region. Rural settlement with agricultural lands. Known for plantations and scenic greenery. Peaceful residential area compared to Kalpetta town. If you meant a different Mundari/Munderi (there are places with similar names in Kerala and Karnataka), tell me which district and I'll give the correct details. It's essentially a residential and agricultural locality within the broader Kalpetta region rather than a separate town or major centre. From Kalpetta, you can reach Munderi via local roads and village routes — often by auto-rickshaw, taxi, or local buses that run to nearby localities. Being close to Kalpetta, Munderi shares in the agricultural lifestyle common across Wayanad — a lot of farming (tea, coffee, spices) and plantation activity around the area. The area itself is quieter with residential pockets and village communities rather than urban infrastructure. Property Details: Land Area: 7.85cent. House: 850sqft and 2bhk.
